Considering that this is a genre film with superheroes in it, that's really saying something. But it's not just that $1 billion that's cool, it's also the fact that it's been in theatres for three months already, according to Box Office Mojo: 3 months out from its theatrical release, All-New Super-Man has raked in $22.9 million, and is more than halfway to the $34.5 million lifetime total of its predecessor. To get to $34.5 million, All-New Super-Man has to stay in theatres for almost four months, an impressive feat given the success of its first two movies. While its predecessors were both delayed by two years, All-New Super-Man is enjoying even better performance than its predecessor, with a worldwide total gross of $32.8 million. I suspect that the $1 billion number is probably on the high side. I mean, these movies have been out for three years now,

What's New in the Mobile Atlas Creator?

Mobile Atlas Creator is an offline editor for creating GIS based applications for Windows Mobile and Android based GPS devices. Rating: Category: Date Added: Thu, 18 May 2007 13:11:07 Price: Free Location: Stick it on a bus Bus driver's need to find out about stops, particularly when a bus is driving at 30 mph. Help them by designing a simple point of interest in Google Earth Pro. The best way to do this is to print out a full-screen Map Screen, and insert it into the Google Earth Pro software. If the driver is using a GPS device, and you want them to drive to a location, you can use the Map Screen to put a note on it that says, "Drive to this location. It's the next stop. Thanks." You can save the Map Screen in three different formats: image, PDF, and TIFF. By using the 'print-screen' function on your computer, you can save a visible print of your full-screen image, without any paper behind it. The resulting image looks much like a digital map, which you can then insert into the Google Earth Pro application. You can also download and print a PDF of your Map Screen, which you can then insert into Google Earth Pro. The advantage of the PDF format is that it's extremely small in size, allowing you to send it in an email or save it on your hard drive. A PDF file is also extremely easy to work with, since it can easily be opened in a word processor or any graphics editing software. Lastly, you can save your Map Screen in TIFF format, and use it in any graphics editing software on the planet.
